

Abstract

The invention relates to a method for producing a fibrous nonwoven by applying an aerodynamic process providing an improved throughput, a fibrous nonwoven produced according to said process, as well as a short fiber suitable for use in said method.